COMMUNITY MOOD · DAY BY DAY 6/10

A busy governance week: the Xi'an Milestone 1 vote went live with a 940m XRD quorum, the council faced questions over the confidentiality of its legal work, and a Temperature Check opened on whether the DAO should own its own on-ledger governance layer. The community also quietly took over more Foundation duties, running the network's seed nodes itself.

WHAT THE ROOM TALKED ABOUT

Xi'an Milestone 1 active vote

After a fast two-day temperature check, Mr. Peanutbutter announced that Xi'an Milestone 1 (Hyperscale) is now an active proposal, with a 940m XRD quorum and seven days to vote. projectShift echoed the call for holders to cast ballots; voting power is fixed by a snapshot taken when the proposal was created.

Should the DAO own its governance layer?

Sentura opened a Temperature Check asking whether the DAO's end-state should be fully decentralized on-ledger governance, and whether to build it from scratch or acquire his Muanprotocol framework, offered as a full handover with no rights claimed. projectShift replied that during the current transition only tools the Foundation already accepts will be used.

RAC legal work transparency

Austin asked why some council work cannot be shared publicly. projectShift explained that meetings with lawyers must stay private under attorney-client privilege, while anything the community needs will still be made public.

Community takes over Foundation infrastructure

Default node configs still pointed at decommissioned Foundation nodes, breaking new setups; Timan/Astrolescent and DefiPlaza provided replacement seed nodes, Faraz confirmed they are in place, and shambupujar is updating the docs. The official dashboard and console URLs also began redirecting to radixscan.io as part of the Foundation's wind-down.

THE BOTTOM LINE

REMEMBER THIS

The Xi'an Milestone 1 vote is live with a 940m XRD quorum and a seven-day window — the community's biggest binding decision this year.

NEXT WEEK

Watch for: the Xi'an Milestone 1 vote closing and whether it reaches quorum, plus reactions to Sentura's governance-layer Temperature Check.

From the council & the crowd

What the tracked voices said, and the week's best exchanges.

COUNCIL & INSIDER WATCH

The council urged votes on the Xi'an Milestone 1 proposal, defended the confidentiality of its lawyer meetings under attorney-client privilege, and confirmed the community seed-node handover and dashboard redirect as part of the Foundation's wind-down plan.

projectShift TRANSITION RAC

Explained that voting power is fixed at proposal creation, that vote delegation is not native to the protocol and will not be ready for upcoming votes, and that lawyer meetings stay private under privilege while anything the community needs will be shared.

"It ain't finished 'till we all say it is, dire as it may be."

Sentura FORUM PROPOSER

Opened a Temperature Check on whether the DAO should acquire his Muanprotocol framework as its own on-ledger governance layer, offered as a full handover with no rights claimed.

"A DAO needs fully decentralized on-ledger governance as its end-state --- not a multisig or off-chain coordination."

Faraz COMMUNITY CONTRIBUTOR

Confirmed community seed nodes are in place to support new validators, removing another Foundation dependency, and that the ledger snapshot is around 240 GiB.

avaunt TRANSITION RAC

Clarified merchant-badge requirements in the gateway setup and asked whether scheduled liquidity provisioning via merchants is something users actually want.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

"If you buy more XRD while a proposal vote is open, can you add the new tokens to your vote?"

No — voting power is fixed by a snapshot taken when the proposal is created, to prevent manipulation.

DEBATE OF THE WEEK — HOW TRANSPARENT SHOULD COUNCIL LEGAL WORK BE?

ONE SIDE

Austin and Matt Hine (Parody) pressed for more openness, arguing that private council discussions make the community takeover look limited.

THE OTHER

projectShift insisted lawyer-client privilege is a legal necessity, and that anything the community needs will still be made public.

Still open — expect a rematch.
