What the room was really talking about

WEEK 24 · 8 JUN 2026
8–14 Jun 2026
Telegram + RadixTalk

COMMUNITY MOOD · DAY BY DAY — 7/10 · +1 vs last week

Previously: AI agents dominated the room, the validator subsidy ended, and the wallet's update authority was in limbo.

A builders' week: four things actually shipped — a wallet bug-fix release, GENKIPOOL's upgraded staking portal, the Muan DAO framework and a World Cup game built in a day — while the room kept arguing about who Radix's website should actually be talking to. The AI-agent thread rolled on, with demos getting more concrete.

WHAT THE ROOM TALKED ABOUT

AI agents on Radix

linuxx and Gary showed 'Office of the Agents'/'AI Ventures' demos — AI agents acting as on-chain employees with badges, per-transaction spending limits and founder approval. Talk turned to tooling: Vlad B proposed an agent that deploys Scrypto components itself, and Karl Tong floated linking Radix to Bittensor subnets for decentralized AI payments.

Institutions or retail for Radix?

Felix attacked the institutional focus of radixdlt.com, arguing institutions won't adopt at current size and the site needs plain-English retail messaging. GENKIPOOL defended it, and Adam recounted two near-miss institutional pitches from late 2025.

GENKIPOOL community portal upgrade

GENKIPOOL shipped wallet connection, direct transactions, multi-validator staking and a 'shopping cart' mode that bundles several actions into one transaction. He flagged a snag: Vercel's free tier bans commercial use, so planned features may force a hosting upgrade.

World Cup Badge Arena rapid build

Vlad B built a free-to-play World Cup prediction game — mint a Passport, collect sealed match cards revealed after the tournament — in one day using Codex AI, deploying to mainnet and fixing bugs as the community reported them. Standings and passport stats pages followed over the weekend.

THE BOTTOM LINE

REMEMBER THIS

AI agents as on-chain employees went from talk to working demos, while four real products shipped in a single week.

NEXT WEEK

Watch for: the RadixPlanet and Astrolescent fee changes landing mid-June, and whether the AI-agent deployment tooling debate turns into a concrete build.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

> “How can Radix work together with Cloudflare, and what value would we offer them?”
> There’s already work integrating Radix x402 payments into Cloudflare Workers, which could let AI agents pay for API calls on-chain with no human in the signing path.

DEBATE OF THE WEEK — WHO SHOULD RADIX TARGET?

ONE SIDE

Felix: at current size institutions won’t come; the website should sell plain-English retail messaging around scale, safety and decentralization.

THE OTHER

GENKIPOOL and Adam: institutional positioning matters now — retail is inactive, mid-size firms want Radix’s USP and unlocked tokenomics, and regulation is bringing them.

Still open — expect a rematch.

THE PULSE

The mood: Energetic and productive — builders shipping daily and a genuine sense that the AI-agent story is getting real, tempered only by the unresolved question of who Radix should be pitching to.
