COMMUNITY MOOD · DAY BY DAY

6/10 · +1 vs last week

Previously: the wallet's Android unstaking fix was awaited, the stablecoin hunt sharpened, and Root Finance's 3M XRD stayed stuck.

A warm, busy week: the community mourned Dan Hughes ahead of the first anniversary of his passing, GENKIPOOL shipped a community-built website and dashboard that sparked a lively design debate, and grassroots marketing pushed into Reddit — only to run into platform censorship.

WHAT THE ROOM TALKED ABOUT

Community website and dashboard

GENKIPOOL built a community Radix website, dashboard and explorer from scratch, shared them for feedback, and proposed the site become official. Critics called the AI-generated design generic and information-overloaded; supporters liked its depth.

Remembering Dan Hughes

Ahead of 29 July, the first anniversary of Dan Hughes's passing, members shared warm memories of Radix's founder — a visionary, 'our captain' — with djtrebel recalling Dan's wish to involve the community more in development.

AI agents and the adoption gap

Tonton called AI agent integration the strongest case for Radix, but linuxx_xrd noted a wallet for agents has existed for two months with almost no usage. philcgibson argued the real problem is adoption, not tech.

Grassroots marketing gains traction

GENKIPOOL's Reddit post drew 9,600 views, celebrated as a brilliant community day — but he was also banned from two cybersecurity subreddits for Web3 content, and sonotopia's Reddit links were repeatedly deleted by the chat bot.

THE BOTTOM LINE

REMEMBER THIS

Two community proposals — Stokenet operations and the website migration — reached temperature check, the clearest sign yet that community self-governance is actually running.

NEXT WEEK

Watch for: the Consultation v2 vote results, the Stokenet temperature check outcome, and the community's tributes to Dan Hughes on 29 July.

THE PEOPLE

From the council & the crowd

What the tracked voices said, and the week's best exchanges.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

“Is the Stokenet testnet essential for the project?”

GENKIPOOL and Perer insisted it is indispensable for attracting developers and projecting credibility; Andyxrd agreed the point is valid but said it should be settled by community debate and vote rather than one opinion.

DEBATE OF THE WEEK — WEBSITES FOR AI AGENTS OR HUMANS

ONE SIDE

Seboeoeoel: future websites should be written for AI agents as the primary audience, with structured content agents can summarise.

THE OTHER

Kafkafrate: humans are the end users who invest and buy tokens — sites should target humans, and agents can simply read a markdown file.

Still open — expect a rematch.

FROM THE NEWS ROOM

Community dashboard goes live

A community-built Radix dashboard and explorer launched on mainnet, following a RadixTalk suggestion. Bug reports and improvement ideas are invited.

FROM THE DEV ROOM

magal36 asked for vote delegation in the Mountain Top consultation dApp so hardware-wallet accounts can delegate to a hot wallet; djtrebel committed to adding it, and GENKIPOOL shared Babylon Android wallet and Sargon pull requests on GitHub.

THE PULSE

The mood: Warm and reflective as the community remembered Dan Hughes, with genuine pride in grassroots wins and a recurring frustration about adoption and platform censorship.

JARGON, DECODED

Testnet — A free copy of the network where developers can test software without risking real funds.

ROLA — Radix's way of proving you control an on-chain identity to a dApp without making a transaction.

Explorer — A website for browsing everything that happens on the network — transactions, accounts and more.
