What the room was really talking about

WEEK 40 · 28 SEPT 2026
28 Sept – 4 Oct 2026
Telegram + RadixTalk

COMMUNITY MOOD · DAY BY DAY

4/10 · -1 vs last week

Previously: the DAO ratification vote sailed past quorum while the room kept arguing over who should get the recovered hUSDC.

A raw, argumentative week: long-time holders vented about the project's direction, RDX Works' murky status and a winding-up petition became public, and the sharpest argument flared over whether flightofthefox's Hyperscale could serve as Radix's own Xi'an upgrade.

WHAT THE ROOM TALKED ABOUT

RDX Works status and finances

Members questioned who still works at RDX Works after Prophet shared a winding-up petition, and Sebööol surfaced RDXH figures of roughly £1.5m cash and £19m digital assets (May 2025). flightofthefox added that former RDX Works assets are now HMRC property, which Azel clarified doesn't directly touch RDXH-held assets.

Fork Radix or keep building

Daniel argued for forking Radix to shed legacy liabilities and reputation, but GENKIPOOL and Timan countered that a fork would lose CEX listings, bridges, the treasury and partner relationships. Timan also listed the active projects: Astrolescent, DefiPlaza, RSwap and Foton, plus Ociswap, Vibolto, rly.fun and Runfly.

Can Hyperscale upgrade Radix?

The week's fiercest debate: flightofthefox argued hs-rs could become Radix's network upgrade by porting the validator set, assets and state — 'The Ship of Theseus is still the Ship of Theseus' — while James Sinkem insisted the technologies are fundamentally incompatible. Jonas and Aditya Ingle sided with exploring a migration path.

Community mood and people gap

Long-time holders vented about missing teams, slow decisions and competition from Solana and Sui, while foxylady called for enthusiasm and people to stand up for the council and work groups. flightofthefox summed it up: 'entities don't solve problems, people solve problems.' A proposed XXX rebrand was mostly dismissed.

THE BOTTOM LINE

REMEMBER THIS

RDX Works' winding-up petition went public, and the community remains in the dark about finances — while the biggest open question is whether Hyperscale could become Radix's own upgrade.

NEXT WEEK

Watch for: the FND Refund Allocation proposal expiring 4 Oct and fallout from the RDX Works petition.

THE PEOPLE

From the council & the crowd

What the tracked voices said, and the week's best exchanges.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

“Does anyone have a project where users pay with fiat and the project covers the XRD transaction fees?”

Vlad B is adding fiat to a new Foton version, likely via Moonpay since Stripe is crypto-unfriendly; on Radix the service provider can pay the fees, so users never need to hold XRD.

DEBATE OF THE WEEK — CAN HYPERSCALE UPGRADE THE RADIX NETWORK?

ONE SIDE

flightofthefox: Radix’s state, assets and validator set could be ported to hs-rs, making it an upgrade of the same network — a Ship of Theseus.

THE OTHER

James Sinkem: the technologies are fundamentally incompatible, Hyperscale is a separate network, and the debate doesn’t belong in the Radix group.

Still open — expect a rematch.

GENKIPOOL teases Radix-only product

He is building a product only possible with Radix technology, aiming to finish by year-end or March at the latest. No details shared.

FROM THE DEV ROOM

flightofthefox on AI-assisted development: AI is a core enabler, but the real secret stays the same — good architecture, good abstractions, good testing; accountability remains human.

THE PULSE

The mood: A bruised, fractious week — frustration over transparency and direction dominated, though builders like GENKIPOOL and foxylady's call for enthusiasm kept some sparks alive.

JARGON, DECODED

Ship of Theseus — The old thought experiment: if every plank of a ship is replaced, is it still the same ship — here, a metaphor for porting Radix onto Hyperscale.

HMRC — The UK's tax authority, which flightofthefox said now owns former RDX Works assets.

Stokenet — Radix's public test network where builders try out their dApps before mainnet.
