What the room was really talking about

WEEK 44 · 26 OCT 2026
26 Oct – 1 Nov 2026
Telegram + RadixTalk

COMMUNITY MOOD · DAY BY DAY — 4/10 · same as last week

Previously: the hUSDC recovery crawled forward, the ex-RDX token row stewed, and GENKIPOOL kept shipping tools.

A turbulent, eventful week: an old Ociswap pool got exploited, Hyperlane bridging quietly returned on Astrolescent, the DAO formally came into existence, and the community's frustration with Radix Works' untouched XRD bag exploded into a live burn-or-lock vote.

WHAT THE ROOM TALKED ABOUT

Burn or lock the RDXW bag?

Giles Morris proposed validators burn or deactivate the XRD held by Radix Works to end its overhang, launching a temperature check that neared quorum within half a day at roughly 50/50. The forum thread turned heated over whether destroying the tokens is justice or theft.

Gary's OTC deal talks stalling

Talks with RDX Holdings over their roughly 1.4B XRD bag were 'not going well' early in the week, but Gary reported more promising second-round talks by Saturday, with another meeting set for Monday. A dashboard (rdxh.lovable.app) now lets anyone track RDXH's on-chain moves.

Ociswap Flex pool exploited

Mike Nguyen warned that a flash-loan bug in the first version of Ociswap's Flex Pool let a hacker drain about 1.1M XRD from the ASTRL pool. Florian Pieper confirmed only the old, rarely used package is affected and urged remaining liquidity providers to withdraw.

Hyperlane bridge back on Astrolescent linuxx announced Hyperlane is live again on Astrolescent, supporting USDC, USDT, BTC, ETH, SOL, BNB and DCKS bridging for a small fixed fee. Timan expects DefiPlaza to deploy new pools for the hAssets within days.

THE BOTTOM LINE

REMEMBER THIS

The Radix DAO formally exists — but its first big test is a live, near-quorum vote on whether to burn Radix Works' XRD.

NEXT WEEK

Watch for: Monday's OTC meeting between Gary and Radix Works, Wednesday's expected return of the recovered Solana USDC, and the burn temperature check's final tally.

More from the room

The week had more conversations than one page could hold.

THE CONVERSATIONS, CONTINUED

Treasury runway worries

Jelthebest questioned whether the remaining stables can cover market making, CEX listings and Gateway costs. Daffy estimated 2–3 years on stripped-down costs; flightofthefox argued effectively zero runway given the token value.

ALSO THIS WEEK

- Governance: the DAO was formally established, Permanent RAC candidacies closed Friday, and Mr. Peanutbutter counted 12 candidates within reach — see Radix DAO Weekly.
- Vlad B proposed pitching Radix to venture capitalists with a deck once the DAO is set up; roger_moon agreed the tech story could attract VCs.
- Charlie and Adam re-litigated who decided the Instabridge sale in the 2025 liquidation; Adam pointed to the old thread and says he's left the Foundation.
- Mauro reported the Radix Wallet showing incorrect balances for weeks; Daffy explained hUSDC's lost peg distorts displayed prices until the hAssets normalise.

From the council & the crowd

What the tracked voices said, and the week's best exchanges.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

“Why did several tokens disappear from the Ociswap top tokens page, and can people still withdraw?”

Florian Pieper explained the tokens dropped below a minimum liquidity threshold affecting only the display page; every pool remains listed in the pool tab and portfolio, so liquidity can always be withdrawn.

ASKED BY VLAD B · ANSWERED BY FLORIAN PIEPER

DEBATE OF THE WEEK — SHOULD RDXW’S TOKENS BE BURNED?

ONE SIDE

The tokens should be burned or locked at validator level: the overhang blocks volunteers and investors, and once the beneficiary adds no value the allocation is fair game.

THE OTHER

The tokens are Radix Works’ legal property; burning them would be theft and would set a precedent — ’if you can do it to them, who is next?’ — that Radix could never recover from.

open — the temperature check is live at vote.radixdao.org/tc/2, near quorum at roughly 50/50, while Gary's OTC talks continue in parallel.

FROM THE DEV ROOM

linuxx shared work-in-progress on an AI-agent wallet toolkit (with an MCP server and transaction templates) and asked whether agents should be allowed to generate arbitrary transaction manifests at all, preferring templates to reduce hallucination risks.

HEARD IN THE ROOM

> "I don't think Radix would ever recover from destroying property. If you can do it to them then who is next, people might think."
> — JIMMI

> "This isn't an HR vacancy in a company, it's a call to action to come up and do what you think it's best for the common and the Community."

THE PULSE

The mood: Raw and turbulent — the DAO's formation was cheered, but anger at the untouched RDXW bag dominates, with impatient and cautious voices wrestling in the open.
