What the room was really talking about

COMMUNITY MOOD

4/10

Previously: Gary campaigned publicly for transparency on ex-RDX token holdings, Emma's hUSDC tracker mapped 360,851 hUSDC to 79 accounts, and NOWNodes dropped Radix support.

A tense, tired week with real progress underneath. The recovered USDC grew to 419K and council nominations finally started stacking up, but bleak sentiment about Radix's direction and a trolling spree tested the room's patience. Gary's RDX Works update and Jelthebest's buyback idea kept transparency front and centre.

WHAT THE ROOM TALKED ABOUT

Gary's RDX Works update: still TBD

Gary reported the ex-RDX token situation remains unresolved due to 'chaotic circumstances' — the directors are mid-transition, 'basically getting fired' — with clarity expected by week's end. He urged members to stop relying on saviors and let the DAO run the show once things settle.

driven by Gary, Matus, Tibor P.

USDC recovery pushes forward

Andy.XRD confirmed 419K USDC recovered last week with 24.7K still stuck on the Solana route. After three days with Prime Vault and Hyperlane, he's continuing recovery efforts — though Hyperlane advised against returning the recovered funds until the rest is sorted.

RAC election field fills out

Mr. Peanutbutter  counted six candidates so far — @R_DIX_NL, Seboool, gilesmorris, linuxx, Leonets and rahkyt — with potentially two more from the transition RAC. XRD82 raised the D&O insurance question, which Mr. Peanutbutter  said is under discussion with the MIDAO organism.

Should the DAO buy the bag?

Jelthebest floated that instead of one individual buying RDX's XRD holdings, the DAO could buy them back with its stables so the tokens are 'in all our hands' — potentially to sell to future partners or grant to builders.

THE BOTTOM LINE

REMEMBER THIS

Nearly 419K of the hacked USDC is now recovered, and six community members have stepped up for the council election — the handover is grinding forward despite the gloom.

NEXT WEEK

Watch for: Gary's promised RDX Works clarity, the final RAC candidate slate, and whether the DAO moves on Jelthebest's buyback idea.

More from the room

The week had more conversations than one page could hold.

Radix in decline or rebuilding?

Sir Drape Yird argued the network is in slow decline with scalability never implemented, while Daniel defended the community-run model and Seböööl and Bayesien insisted builders are working at full speed. A determined troll sapped the room's energy before Daffy warned of mutes and bans.

ALSO THIS WEEK

- GENKIPOOL noted ISO 20022 bank messaging isn't used on Radix yet and likely won't be until there's sufficient liquidity and a stablecoin.
- Alexey criticized the Radix Wallet for requiring manual typing of every seed-phrase word during setup and restoration.
- Seböööl noted the idOS Gateway was live on Radix but shut down when RDX Works wound down, and questioned its real MiCA compliance use.

From the council & the crowd

What the tracked voices said, and the week's best exchanges.

COUNCIL & INSIDER WATCH

No RAC room extract this week, but in main chat the council election dominated: six candidates are nominated, the transition RAC may add two more, and D&O insurance for candidates is under discussion with the MIDAO organism.

@Andy.XRD USDC RECOVERY LEAD

Reported 419K USDC recovered with 24.7K still stuck via the Solana route, after three days working with Prime Vault and Hyperlane.

Gary COMMUNITY LEAD ON RDX WORKS WI

Said the ex-RDX token situation is still TBD amid chaotic director transitions, expects clarity by week's end, and urged the community to stop waiting for saviors.

"We have to stop relying on saviors and hero's. Everyone has to be there own Radix hero and savior here."

Daffy COMMUNITY MODERATOR

Warned a repeat troll that continued discouragement of builders and holders would mean a one-week mute, then a ban; also explained the wallet's balance display has been off since the Hyperlane bridge halted.

GENKIPOOL BUILDER

Reintroduced Radix Seal and shared the Proof of Personhood launch; said ISO 20022 bank messaging likely won't arrive until there's sufficient liquidity and a stablecoin.

Mr. Peanutbutter COMMUNITY ORGANIZER

Tallied six election candidates, said D&O insurance is under discussion with MIDAO, and noted the community is waiting on the whale situation and a full RAC slate.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

"How many candidates are standing in the current council election?"

Six so far — @R_DIX_NL, Seböool, gilesmorris, linuxx, Leonets and rahkyt — with potentially two more from the transition RAC.

DEBATE OF THE WEEK — IS RADIX IN TERMINAL DECLINE?

ONE SIDE

The network is in slow decline: promised scalability never shipped, adoption is absent, and the community is left technically and financially handicapped.

THE OTHER

The community-run model is working: builders like Seböool and Bayesien are shipping at full speed, the DAO will soon steer everything, and the remaining community is in it for the tech.

Still open — expect a rematch.

FROM THE DEV ROOM

The dev room was quiet this week; main chat carried the technical threads, including GENKIPOOL's community explorer dashboard upgrades and a discussion of idOS's real MiCA compliance use after the RDX Works wind-down.

HEARD IN THE ROOM

“Radix users are often only looking for quick profits within the network, but good ideas like the one above are foundational to the future success of Radix”

— LEUCHTTURM

“Hope that with the next dao we go totally public for good or bad things.”

— LINUX.XRD

“Your investment in Radix isn't the most dangerous thing you'll do 🙏”

— GILES MORRIS

THE PULSE

The mood: Weary but not defeated — frustration over transparency delays and the stuck bridge runs alongside real recovery progress and a slowly filling election slate.

The tracker

What the room expects to happen — and how last week's calls went.
